

Christian Lo Russo

About me

I am a passionate person, eager to learn and constantly improve myself. I am from the United States and have lived in Argentina from an early age, so I am very familiar with both cultures, which helps me communicate effectively. I have gained experience in various fields, which has taught me how to manage my time and work under pressure. I possess critical and creative thinking skills, which allow me to solve problems quickly. Additionally, I have studies in programming and law.

Experience

Warehouse Associate - Amazon

In my role as a warehouse associate at Amazon, I played a crucial part in the package management process, focusing on scanning and sorting shipments before their final delivery. During this time, I met people from diverse cultures, which helped improve my social skills. We had to work efficiently in a fast-paced, high-pressure environment.

Sales Representative - Stauer

As a Sales Representative at Stauer Jewelry, I handled inbound calls from U.S., Canadian, and Alaskan clients, selling memberships and providing excellent customer service. I consistently met sales targets and resolved customer inquiries effectively.

Retail Associate - Macy's

As a sales associate at Macy's, I was responsible for providing exceptional customer service, assisting customers with their needs, and handling transactions at the cash register. I developed strong skills in the use of point-of-sale systems and gained in-depth knowledge of the products we offered.

Assitant to the Manager - Da Noi

In this role, I was responsible for assisting with the tasks assigned by my manager for the restaurant, organizing the day, ensuring everything was in order, that products were not missing, and staying on top of the finances. Here, I developed my organizational and efficiency skills.

Front end developer - MPV Creator

I collaborated in the development of an application for a virtual wallet, where I learned to use React Native and strengthened my knowledge of Tailwind CSS. Additionally, I developed a website for the administration panel with a dashboard displaying information about this application, using React with Next.js.
